

ANSWERS FOR TODAY

Is There Such a Thing as Right and Wrong?

Micah 6:8

These questions are provided for your further study and application of Sunday's sermon. Thoughtfully writing out the answers to these questions will help to drive home the point of the study. It is also helpful when you are able to discuss your answers with others. 1. Read Deuteronomy 10:12. How does it compare to Micah 6:8? Do these verses correspond with one another, or are they contradictory to each other? What do you believe the relationship is between the teachings of these two verses?
2. The first requirement given to mankind in Micah 6:8 is "to do justice." What do you believe this means? What are some examples of injustices in our world today? Using these examples, what would justice look like? What would it take for you to bring about justice?
3. The next requirement in Micah 6:8 is "to love kindness." Does this simply mean that we should love the idea of being kind, or should "loving kindness" require action on our part? How do other English translations read? What is the opposite of "loving kindness," and how do we avoid that?
4. The final commandment given to us in Micah 6:8 is "to walk humbly with your God." Why should our spiritual journey with God be marked by humility? What can be done to keep humility at the forefront of our lives on a daily basis? How do you know when a person is not humble?

Micah 6:8

*8 He has told you, O man, what is good;
And what does the Lord require
of you
But to do justice, to love
kindness,
And to walk humbly with your God?*
